MAN IS CONQUEROR

A THOUSAND years after the birth of Christ the world was still bounded by fear. To the south lay the regions where even the sea was boiling hot and monstrous men guarded gold-encrusted but inhospitable coasts; to the north was the white death, a land of eternal ice and snow, peopled with spirits hostile to men, and to the west and east lay the earth's edge, over which the too-venturesome might sail to hurl their ships into a bottomless abyss.

But the undying flame of courage was in men's hearts. Little by little brave men gave the lie to the coward fears. South they sailed, and north and west until they had drawn a circle around the world. They gave their lives willingly that we might know the last mystery of the equator and the poles.

And so, bit by bit, man has stripped nature of its ancient mysteries and shown himself the master. To-day he makes lightning bolts in his laboratory; he is master of the seas that once denied him; he has conquered the fever that was the evil spirit of the tropic jungle; he makes a living off land that only yesterday was a sterile desert, which his nomad forbears peopled with dread.

In this long process such fears as still haunt the Bulu mind have been dissolved. The advance of the race can be measured by its discarded fears. They are rude mileposts on the road to enlightenment.

Each individual life is in miniature a parallel of the path of humanity from darkness to light. Every man finds dark corners in himself which he must explore. Fear peoples those corners—fear of to-morrow's possible failure and misfortune, fear of old age and weakening powers. But the man of courage, whatever his fears, is on the way to lay the spirits that mar the serenity of his life. Each of us must fight for his own hand; yet each of us gains something through the victory of his companions.

Our single combat is manifolded a million times every minute by others in every part of our country. That is the Great War. Every generation is engaged. Each human being is enlisted in this fight for freedom and self-mastery.

IT'S VALUE DEMONSTRATED

WHEN black clouds rolled skyward over the business section early Monday morning, the value of Upland's Fire Department was once more demonstrated. The clouds of smoke were indeed threatening, yet realizing that Upland has a fire fighting squad second to none, those in the business district at the time realized that there was little danger, for the department was soon on the job and the blaze was no more. Upland probably has the best fire protection for the cost, of any city its size, for although a volunteer department with one paid driver on the job continuously, the fire fighters have always given the town excellent protection which is fully appreciated by the people.

Business Built On Confidence

EVERY reputable business is built upon confidence. Destroy that confidence, and in nine cases out of ten you have destroyed the business. The Attorney General of the United States should be very careful that what he says should not tend to destroy the confidence of the ultimate consumers in the retailers of the land, unless he has the very strongest of evidence for making such statements. And in his recent attacks upon the retailers as a class the Attorney General has had no such evidence.

As a matter of fact, the retailer has suffered cruelly the last twelve months. Very few have made more than a normal profit; many have made no profit at all; many have suffered severe losses. Prices have been cut to rock bottom, that is, rock bottom so far as costs were concerned. Of course there are some lines in which prices are still entirely too high, doubtless, but in such cases the retailer is not at fault. He has cut his profits to the bone in order to sell goods. The keenest competition that the world knows automatically keeps the retailer within bounds.

He needs no warning from the Attorney General of the United States to cut his profits. His competitors see that he does that, or they get the business away from him. There are bad retailers and good retailers, of course, just as there are bad men and good ones in every other line. But take them as a class, and they stack up with the best in every community.

As a matter of fact, they are the strength of the community. They pay the taxes, they contribute to the philanthropies, they employ the help, they boost—in short, they do the things that the best people in any community do. The community welfare is their welfare, and selfishness alone would keep them operating on a decent margin of profit, if they had no other motive.

Be fair to the retailer; he wants to be fair to you; but the point of it is, whether he wants to or not, he has to be fair to you because competition makes him so.—Birmingham, Ala., News.

Arizona Pioneers Celebrate

THIS week Arizona, our nearest neighbor to the southeast, has been holding a reunion of its pioneer settlers. The status of a pioneer is determined by his mode of entry into the territory. The railroad reached Phoenix in 1887 and the man or woman who has lived in Arizona for thirty-five years, and whose advent there was accomplished otherwise than by steam car, is accounted eligible to the state society. Arizona has had a picturesque and vivid history since the first territorial government was established in Civil War times and the membership roster is slim of the survivors of days when a fight with Apaches, when out prospecting, was an ever-imminent possibility. Not a few California families cherish the records of their forbears who reached the Land of Promise by way of old Fort Yuma after encountering many privations and constant dangers on the way. That sturdy pioneer, the late L. J. Rose, who once owned a principality in the San Gabriel valley, stretching from the foothills to the sea, trekked across with his family from Santa Fe, in the fifties, and going into camp at the Yuma crossing was set upon by Apaches. One of the pioneer women of Los Angeles a daughter of Mr. Rose, was two years old at that time and an arrow shot by an Indian just missed her cheek and buried its shaft in the framework of the covered wagon inside which the women were cowering. The loss of all their cattle and several of their mules compelled a quick retreat to Santa Fe, after the Indians were driven off but, nothing daunted, the indomitable Rose set out again six months later and safely reached California. How many of the residents of Lamanda Park, now a part of Pasadena, know that from Mrs. Rose, the brave woman who tended the two-year-old baby through that dreadful night at the crossing, the name Lamanda is derived? One of the outstanding features of the reunion and celebration of the Arizona pioneers this week is that the music will be furnished by two Indian bands, membership in which is comprised largely of young Apaches, whose sires and grandsires fought the early settlers so ferociously. It is interesting to learn that more than 1,200 individuals have registered as eligible to membership in the state-wide organization of pioneers, including not a few women. What a plethora of stories has been exchanged at the celebration as the old-timers recited their personal recollections! It was a happy inspiration of the Arizona Republican, of Phoenix, to finance the initial gathering last year which made the organization possible. —L. A. Saturday Night.

OUR GROWTH AND SUCCESS CERTAIN

WHAT of the future for Southern California? This perhaps, is the query that is in the minds of many business men today, and one indication that this section has just commenced to grow, is seen in the announcement made last week by a Los Angeles architect, who stated that he had contracts completed for nine buildings to be erected in Los Angeles, all of them from eight stories up in height, and all of them of the grade "A" type of building.

Investors do not erect large buildings on a chance, but their erection is built on a solid business basis and the fact that one architect has nine to build simply indicates that within the coming year there is to be a vast building activity, not only in Los Angeles, but throughout Southern California.

Just as Los Angeles depends on surrounding communities, so do the surrounding communities depend on Los Angeles and whatever growth is enjoyed by the metropolis is reflected to a certain degree to every town in that section. If Los Angeles business men see in the future bigger and better things for their city, Upland business men should be alive to the fact that still greater things are coming our way and that now is the time to prepare for bigger business. The vast majority, are impressed with that idea, as is seen in the business section today, for great improvements are being carried out and modernizing of the down-town portion of the city is being gradually accomplished.

It is also evident from the recent city election that the voters desire the town to progress, for by their votes they demonstrated that a progressive city with every resource developed to its fullest possibility, is what they want. Never in the history of the town has the outlook been brighter. The Chamber of Commerce was never stronger, and by working in conjunction with the Upland Business Men's Association, just formed, a program of promotion will be developed which will mean unparalleled growth.

American Legion Events of Interest

NOTE—In order that the public may have a better understanding of the work the American Legion is doing both in its national and local organizations, arrangements have been made whereby the publicity committee of the local post will furnish for each Tuesday's issue of The News, an article dealing with either the Adjusted Compensation Bill, State Bond Issue, Americanization work, or local and county post activities.

From the April 7th issue of "The American Legion Weekly" is taken an article dealing with the opposition to the National Adjusted Compensation Bill which has recently passed the House of Representatives and will be before the Senate within a short time.

THE DISCOUNT ON SECRETARY MELLON

How much shall the nation—and Congress—write off the face value of Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon's expert opinion of the Adjusted Compensation Bill?

It is an ironical paradox that the principal enemy of the Adjusted Compensation Bill is Andrew Mellon of Pittsburgh, one of the mightiest industrial monarchs of America.

It is another ironical paradox that Mr. Mellon, sitting in the chair of the Secretary of the Treasury, should be giving expert testimony to Congress on a question in which he has an overwhelming personal and private interest.

Mr. Mellon's fortune is estimated at from $300,000,000 to $500,000,000. He has been repeatedly referred to as the second wealthiest man in America—the runner-up for Rockefeller—or as the third wealthiest. He may not rightfully hold either title, but beyond doubt he possesses an immense fortune. And it is true that this fortune was greatly increased during the war.

Mr. Mellon's industrial interests are so vast that it is difficult even to approximate them. At the time he became Secretary of the Treasury he was listed as an officer or director of seventy banks, insurance companies and industrial corporations having aggregate resources of $1,613,674,414. The banks and insurance companies alone in which he was interested had resources of $360,193,541, and the combined assets of his other corporations reached the total of $753,480,923. His connections with these seventy institutions and corporations were matters of record. But Mr. Mellon's holdings in seventy organizations are not the full measure of his financial interests.

Those who have studied his successful, wide-ranging career declare that he is directly interested in corporations having combined resources of more than two billion dollars.

The complete record of Mr. Mellon's financial activities, however, must be hidden in the labyrinth of corporation bookkeeping and accounting. It is doubtful if Mr. Mellon himself could reckon the true value of all his corporation holdings and the extent of his wealth. Certainly, records fall short in revelation when an enormously wealthy man may be listed directly as a controlling factor in one huge corporation and yet be a still greater power in a whole group of subsidiary concerns with which his name is not associated.

The 1921 records show—and these are amplified by common knowledge among financial experts—that Mr. Mellon is the dominant personality of the American aluminum industry—an industry that has made profits in recent years which may, without exaggeration, be termed fabulous. They show that he is a leader in the oil business and a dictator in steel, glass and coal.

The Aluminum Company of America is owned almost entirely by the Mellon brothers, two brothers of the Secretary of the Treasury having interests significant as compared with his own. With the Gulf Oil Co., likewise, it was Mr. Mellon who exercised most powerful control. In steel Mr. Mellon was mainly responsible for the founding and upbuilding of Donora as the location of the great steel mills he established. He was head of, or a director in, four Pittsburgh banks.

A mere reading of the names of the corporations in which he is interested, the enumeration of the war materials which these concerns made for the Government, is conclusive evidence that Mr. Mellon profited heavily during the war. Inevitably aluminum and steel and coal companies paid enormous dividends during the war.

The wartime profits of Mr. Mellon's aluminum corporations give the index to the increase of his wealth. These companies control practically the entire aluminum industry of America. And here is what the war did for aluminum. In 1914 aluminum was selling at 18 cents a pound. The price went to 37 cents in 1917 and was 33 cents in 1918. The production, which in 1910 had been only 12,000,000 pounds jumped to 90,000,000 pounds in 1914. In 1913 the aluminum producers received $13,000,000 for their products, in 1918, $74,000,000.

As the foremost industrial leader of Pittsburgh, Mr. Mellon was one of the principal beneficiaries of the prosperity war contracts brought to the Allegheny valley. The Standard Steel Car Co., a Mellon enterprise, alone was awarded contracts totalling more than $109,000,000.

These instances are cited only because they are typical. As with aluminum and steel, so also with oil and glass and coal. Every industrial corporation in which Mr. Mellon exercised control participated in the golden prosperity which the war brought to Pittsburgh.

The official government records show that the wartime activities of the Standard Steel Car Company brought that concern directly under the eyes of an investigating committee appointed by Congress. That committee devoted several pages of a report to testimony concerning the Mellon enterprises. Representative Jeffers of Alabama, only a few weeks ago, in the debate immediately preceding the passage of the Adjusted Compensation Bill declared:

"Testimony before the Grahame investigating committee shows that the Standard Steel Car Company, owned by the Mellon affiliated interests, was proved to be the worst type of grafters who robbed the Government."

Mr. Mellon has become a national figure in the United States in much the same manner as Hugo Stinnes has emerged from pre-war obscurity to post-war fame in Germany. There are many points of resemblance between the financial genius of America and the financial genius of Germany. It should be remembered, however, that Mr. Mellon had a flying start on the road to wealth even before the war, whereas Stinnes found in the war the very basis of his huge accumulation of money. Both, however, carried on their wartime operations without attracting undue attention from their countrymen. Both dislike publicity. Both remain enigmatic figures. Both typify the man whose development has proceeded in one single channel of human endeavor—making money.

With all the facts that have been given heretofore, it may be acknowledged that Mr. Mellon's personal integrity, his business honesty, as these are reckoned, are unassailable. Certainly in his record, so far as it is open, there is nothing to show that Mr. Mellon differs greatly from other masters of finance. It would be gross exaggeration to depict Mr. Mellon as a malevolent figure. On the contrary it must be admitted that he is probably thoroughly conscientious according to his standards and is unusually sincere. Undoubtedly Mr. Mellon thinks of himself as the Richard Coeur de Lion of the Treasury, the courageous protector of the financial Holy Citadel, the leader of a crusade to save the Treasury from the impious hands of the avaricious.

EXCELLENT PROSPECTS FOR GENERAL FARMING

For the last half of March the California Co-operative Crop Marketing Service says:

In spite of the low temperatures of the last half of March and the unusual spring season, reports indicate that general conditions are indicative of good crops in practically all branches of farming, especially fruit. Dry and moderately warm weather is needed to start vegetation to growing and put land in condition for spring plowing.

Pastures have improved more rapidly during the past two weeks than during the preceding two weeks. The growth, which has been retarded by cool weather, is now beginning to improve rapidly. Moisture conditions are excellent and prospects are that pasture will carry through to a much later date than usual. The condition of pasture at this season of the year is an index of the livestock condition and, as indicated by the improvement of pasture, livestock is showing a steady gain.

The lambing season is practically over, with losses lighter than expected under the rather unfavorable conditions prevailing during lambing period. Losses are reported to be greatest in the mountain sections and the Sacramento Valley, with reports varying from light to very heavy in the San Joaquin Valley. No heavy losses are reported in Southern California. The condition of lambs is reported good in all sections of the state. A few lambs are now ready for market in Contra Costa County and Tulare will have some ready for market within 10 days.

Wheat and barley are showing satisfactory improvement, except in a few of the Coast counties where grains are turning yellow due to unfavorable conditions. There is a good root system and with some warm weather grains will show a condition well above the average for this time of the year. The barley acreage shown this year will equal or exceed last year's acreage. The blooming of fruit trees is at least 15 days later than usual. Apricot and peach trees are in bloom. It is feared that there will be considerable loss from brown rot in these sections where the weather has continued cool and cloudy.

During the trial of a case in a Boston court it became necessary to call to the witness stand a lady's maid. "Where were you at 6:45 on the evening in question?" was the first query put to her by the examining counsel. "Dressing the hair of madame," was the response. Now," said the attorney, very solemnly, with uplifted finger, "think very carefully before you answer. Was or was not your mistress in the room at that time?"

It isn't any wonder that a spoiled boy usually turns out a rotten man.

CUCAMONGA

Miss Marian Belden journeyed to Redlands Thursday where she was a weekend guest at the home of her friend, Mrs. Harold Anderson.

Miss Maud Markham is expected home this week from Los Angeles for a little rest and vacation from her school studies.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Roberts, with a jolly party of friends, spent the Easter week-end on the Silver Strand at Hermosa Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hoffman and children of Long Beach, were Sunday callers at the home of the latter's sister, Mrs. Maurice Bonillas, Jr., on Feron street, to make the acquaintance of their new nephew, William Kenneth, who arrived on Tuesday of last week, weight 10 pounds. Mr. and Mrs. Bonillas, Jr., are receiving the congratulations of many friends and everyone is happy.

Miss Kate Molsinger returned Sunday to Los Angeles, after spending her vacation week visiting her relatives and friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hawkey and daughter, Miss Audrey, are now cozily domiciled at their new home in Upland, near Ninth street, and are greeting their old friends and patrons at their place of business at the Motor Transit station.

Misses Madge Horst and Leslie Fowler returned last week to their school duties in Corona and Riverside after a delightful week-end camping trip in the great out-doors of Palm Canyon.

Albert Davenport, Jr., tiny son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Davenport, former Cucamongans, now of Ontario, was one of four baby boys which were christened by Rev. J. B. Toomay at the Bethel Congregational Church, Ontario, at the Easter morning service, as was also the baby son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Ingalls of Ontario. Mr. Ingalls being a well-known real estate man in this locality.

Mrs. Maria Moeller returned on Monday after a five-day visit with her sister, Mrs. Arthur Prause of Los Angeles.

Miss Wilhelmina Barnes of Ontario was a guest on Wednesday of her friend, Miss Marian Belden.

C. B. Molsinger, accompanied by Mrs. C. H. Wikoff of Chicago, who is a houseguest this week at the Molsinger home, motored to Riverside early Sunday morning where they enjoyed the wonderful sunrise Easter service on Mt. Rubidoux.

Ed Miller of Oxnard motored in on Sunday, accompanied by Mrs. Lucie Palmer, who is visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Palmer, for several weeks.

Mrs. Herbert Powellson and son Jack of Needles were week-end guests at the home of Mrs. Powellson's sister, Mrs. E. G. Eymann.

It will be "Ladies' Night" for the B. P. O. E. Ontario branch, which is meeting on Friday evening this week at the Sycamores. Local Elks with "friend wives" are planning to attend the gala affair.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Dana entertained as dinner guests Easter Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. English of Ontario and Mrs. Sarah Shaffstall.

Virgil Davis and family, with a merry party of friends, all of the Lucas Rancho, enjoyed a motor jaunt to Lytle Creek, where an Easter egg hunt and other games added zest to their day's outing Easter day.

Paul Chafe, traveling salesman for the Wasco Company of Los Angeles, which handles supplies for gas and oil stations, was covering this end of the county and Riverside territory last week, making his headquarters with his sister here, Mrs. A. C. Beattie. He returned to Los Angeles Friday, where he and his mother are now pleasantly domiciled at their new apartments on St. Louis street, opposite Hollenbeck Park.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Van Fleet and family entertained a large company of relatives including their children and grandchildren, Easter Sunday, at their home on Archibald avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Jamison were hosts at a happy little Easter gathering on Sunday, entertaining at dinner Mr. and Mrs. Homer Sink of San Bernardino and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson G. Crosswell and two children of Pomona, and their son, Lee Jamison.

Mrs. Mary J. Reid, Miss Gertrude Reid and Mrs. E. S. Bishop, delegates of the Cucamonga Woman's Club; Mrs. J. H. Williams and Mrs. Harry I. de Berard, representing the Current Events Club of Ontario, and Mrs. Arthur M. de Berard of the Round Table Club, are expecting to attend the county convention of Federated Women's Clubs at Highland today (Tuesday).

Mrs. E. H. Bryan of Ontario was a guest here last week of her daughter, Mrs. A. M. de Berard.

George Thorpe was a guest here a week ago at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. F. Thorpe of "Orangethorpe" Alta Loma, coming out from the city to recuperate after a siege of influenza and inflammatory rheumatism. With him were his young son Billy, with their small cousins, Betty Ann and Barrett Thorpe. Mr. Thorpe returned to Los Angeles last week, feeling much improved after his much needed rest.

F. M. Garrard has purchased from

Thos. Cuning the lot on Eighth street, just east of the Cucamonga Dairy Farm. This gives him three lots adjoining on two of which are the homes he built several years ago.

The leaders of the Boy and Girl's Work Organizations met last Monday evening, at the Model Flat at Chaffey Union High School, to formulate plans for the coming year's work.

Father Ricard of the Santa Clara University, famed as a weather prognosticator, was quite up to the minute in prophesying our Easter weather, which was to be "clear from high north to low south" on Easter day, followed by bad weather and severe winds on 17th and 18th. It threatened to "come to blows" on Sunday hereabouts, but honoring the day, waited over till Monday, when the gale which had raged in San Fernando valley on Saturday, switched down the desert, and through the mountain passes, stirring up a lot of dust to the "south and east" from the looks of the ether and is now playing tag with the atmosphere in this vicinity.

C. E. Thorpe has recently purchased twenty additional acres to his place on Amethyst avenue, just across the street west of his home-site, and is setting same out to Sultana grapes, which will give him 26 acres in raisin grapes.

The visit of the well-known bird, old Dr. Stork, was the occasion for much rejoicing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Palmer of Feron street, a bouncing pair of twins, a boy 7½ pounds and a girl, 6½ pounds, arriving on Sunday morning, and all reported doing nicely. Mrs. Palmer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Miller of Upland, one-time southsiders, and a sister of Miss Leona Miller, popular among the younger set.

Miss Marie Anglin entertained quite informally a little group of her young neighborhood friends at her home on Eighth street Saturday evening. Lively games on the lawn passed the time merrily, after which the young hostess served dainty refreshments to the following guests:

Misses Cleo Holland, Dorothy Mayo of Los Angeles, Mary and Alice Summerville, and Donald and Margaret Cook.

An enjoyable family reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Eymann on Easter Sunday in honor of Mrs. Eymann's mother, Mrs. Alice Philippi, who expects to leave soon for an indefinite stay at her old home in Nebraska. Her six children, five daughters and one son, Dan, presented their mother with a handsome traveling bag with best wishes for a fine trip and a speedy return again to California. A picnic dinner on the lawn was also given.

Mr. and Mrs. I. F. Cowan, Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Benton, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Secker, Mr. L. W. Philippi, Dan Philippi, all of Los Angeles; Mrs. Herbert Powellson of Needles, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Eymann, and Mrs. Philippi's eight grandchildren.

Miss Jessie Shaffstall spent the week-end with family friends in San Bernardino, enjoying with them the Easter sunrise services at Arrowhead.

Henry Albert, Sr., who, as everyone knows, is an enthusiastic admirer of Abraham Lincoln, has had framed and presented to our three local schools, Alta Loma, Central and South Side, a splendid pen and ink drawing of our martyred president, one for each school, who feel greatly indebted to Mr. Albert for these fine pictures. The Cucamonga First National Bank will also receive one of the drawings for a place of honor on the walls of the bank.

Oscar Whitney had a fine Easter treat, enjoying two sermons on Easter morning and this is how he did it. He listened in on his own private wave, his radio outfit, hearing Dr. E. E. Helms of the Los Angeles M. E. Church, who preached to probably 200,000 persons through the L. A. Times radio station, and then our popular merchant motored to our own little M. E. Church and listened in on another fine Easter sermon by our Rev. H. C. Mullin.

Mrs. John Stoebe of Alta Loma, has as her houseguest her cousin, Miss Anna Kucera of Cedar Rapids, Ia., who expects to visit here for several weeks. Miss Kucera is assistant cashier of a local bank in her home town, who have given her three months' leave in which to tour California.

Messrs. John Whitson, James Whitson, W. H. de Berard, Mr. and Mrs. Harry de Berard, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. de Berard and Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Bishop were among those enjoying the wonderful vesper service as rendered by the choir of the Bethel Congregational church Sunday afternoon in Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Ross of Pasadena were dinner guests on Sunday at the home of Mrs. J. T. Haddock, being enroute from the Easter sunrise service at Mt. Rubidoux. Although they left Pasadena at midnight when they reached the top of Rubidoux, they were much disappointed when they were unable on account of the great crowd already assembled there, said to number 16,000, to get anywhere near enough to hear the services.

George Keyes, who had been enjoying the week-end in Los Angeles, returned home Sunday afternoon, being accompanied out by Mrs. Frank Hedges and daughter, Miss Cora, who had been visiting the past week in the big city. Mr. Keyes had the pleasure of attending the Easter sunrise service at Angeles Mesa and hearing the Rev. N. L. Rowell, the oldest minister in active service in Los Angeles.

Mrs. E. G. Eymann, assisted by Mrs. Harry Cook, very delightfully entertained the little folk of the Jolly Dozen Club and a few of their little friends to the number of 21, Friday afternoon last, at the home of the former on Eighth street. The happy hours passed speedily away at Easter games, an egg hunt and other fascinating sports on the lawn. Prizes for the egg hunt were won by Benjamin Vizio and Little Alice Cook. Tables prettily decorated with Easter lilies and other spring blossoms, were placed in the shady arbor, where covers were laid for the little guests, each of whom received tiny baskets of Easter eggs as favors. Home-made ice cream and cake with Easter candies were served by the hostesses at the close of the afternoon.

On one of Queen Victoria's earliest visits to London, she observed to her friend, the then Earl of Albemarle: "I wonder if my good people of London are as glad to see me as I am to see them." He pointed to the letters V. R. woven into the decorations, and said: "Your majesty can see their loyal cockney answer, 'Ve are!'"

CUCAMONGA WOMAN'S CLUB—

An up-to-the-minute and fascinating way of presenting an old-fashioned subject, "Home Problems," and a program as arranged by the chairman of the program committee, Mrs. J. H. Williams, brought out a large attendance at Thursday's meeting of the Cucamonga Woman's Club, with Mrs. Chas. Bauer entertaining hostess at her pretty home on State Highway. Spring blossoms in profusion brightened the living rooms, while a great bowl of purple Johnny-jump-ups, in all their velvety beauty, called forth many admiring comments.

A splendid program followed, each speaker being enthusiastically applauded and many useful ideas were stored away for future use.

Delegates appointed to attend the county convention of federated clubs at Highland on the following Tuesday were Mrs. Geo. S. Keyes and Mrs. E. S. Bishop. The next meeting was announced for Thursday afternoon, April 27th, at the home of Mrs. W. H. Horst and will be one of exceptional interest—a musical in charge of Miss Mildred Milliken, talent young musician of Cucamonga and Claremont.

Favoring with pleasing violin solos, accompanied on the piano by Miss Milliken, Miss Hazel Bauer rendered very gracefully de Koven's "The Old, Old Love" and Weber's "Invitation to the Dance."

The serving of dainty refreshments by the hostess concluded a very pleasant afternoon.

STUDY SECTION MEETS WITH MRS. HANDLEY—

Mrs. A. J. Handley will be hostess tomorrow afternoon to the members of the study section of the Upland Woman's Club, at her home on Euclid avenue.

The program will consist of a round table discussion on "What America owes to Italy for music, literature, art and law," led by Mrs. Handley, Mrs. Owen, Mrs. Harn and Miss Williams, followed by a talk on "Italy Today" by W. W. Mather of Chaffey faculty. Everyone who has heard Mr. Mather speak will know what a treat he has in store for those fortunate enough to hear him next Wednesday.

REUNION ON EASTER AT BROOKSIDE PARK—

Mr. and Mrs. Lew Hayden and four children motored to Pasadena last Easter Sunday to join in a family reunion of the Hayden family.

Twenty-four were present and a very jolly day was spent. A delightful picnic luncheon was enjoyed at 1 o'clock, and the younger members of the party played happily, while the older ones chatted.

Those present included G. H. Hayden of Pasadena, a former resident of Upland, where he was postmaster for 13 years; Mr. and Mrs. Casterline and family of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Brown and three children of Huntington Park, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Warnell and two children, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gibson (Geraldine Hayden) and baby of Pasadena.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS ENJOY HIKE—

One of the most enjoyable of the many hikes ever taken by the Wah Wah Tey See Camp Fire Girls was that of last Friday when they spent the day in the hills and canyons northwest of Upland. So many of their tramps have been strenuous ones that the leisurely stroll up Ewy's Canyon and into Palmer's was mere play to the hikers. Luncheon was enjoyed in Palmer's Canyon where the girls saw many new cottages going up for summer residents. The way home led along the Mesa road where quantities of wild flowers were gathered.

Among those enjoying the trip were Miss Harwood, guardian of the Camp Fire, Alice Frisbee, Mabel Moore, Lena Leahy, Lucille Weeks and Louise Buffington. Mr. Henry, an uncle of Miss Harwood, who is visiting here from Seattle, accompanied the girls part of the way on their walk, and was delighted with the wonderful view of the valley from the mouth of Palmer Canyon.

EASTERN STAR AUXILIARY MEETS—

Mrs. H. C. Kennedy entertained the members of the Auxiliary of the Order of the Eastern Star at her home, with one of the largest number of members present since the Auxiliary was organized here. Twenty-five women represented the membership, and an enthusiastic business meeting was held.

A charming informal hour followed during which Mrs. Kennedy served delicious refreshments to her guests assisted by Mrs. Lyman M. Clark. The next meeting will take the form of an all-day picnic at the hospitable home of Mrs. Wayne Morse at Alta Loma, Mrs. N. G. Pehl being joint hostess.

ONTARIO

Ball Again Mayor

The city council reorganized last night following the municipal election of a week ago, Mayor Willard D. Ball being reelected to the head of the governing body. Mayor Ball announced the reappointment of all standing committees of the council. Prior to the reorganization, the vote was canvassed and Messrs. Ball and Isaac Jones officially declared elected.

Protest Sub-Division

Frank Haasis appeared before the city council to protest against the acceptance by the city of the plot of a subdivision at the southeast corner of J street and Euclid avenue, the ground that no provision was made for a street to take care of the property in the rear. The matter was referred to the street committee.

For Garbage Collection

O. S. Roen, city service manager, was last night instructed to enter into a contract with W. C. Gilman, a south country rancher, for the disposal of the city garbage, and a tentative proposal was made the Pomona Manufacturing Company to trade an unsatisfactory pump in one of the city's wells in East Fourth street for one which has been tried and proven satisfactory.

Enter Protest

The council last night adopted a resolution protesting to the county supervisors against inclusion in a proposed storm water protection district to the west of Ontario, of land belonging to the city north of Eighteenth street on the ground that it would be of no benefit to the city. The council is joined in the protest by the San Antonio Water Company.

Would Buy City Land

An offer from W. H. de Berard as submitted to the city council last night to buy from the city all its tillable land in East Fourth street at $200 per acre and allow the city to retain all water rights, including the privilege of sinking as many wells as it desires, was referred to the committee on public property.

An amendment to the city license ordinance, reducing the license on female dogs from $5 to $4 per year was given first reading.

Chamber Team Banquets

Members of the teams who conducted the recent membership drive of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce to the number of 50, attended a banquet last night at Hotel Casa Blanca. The C. O. D's, headed by J. S. Ingalls, who lost in the contest, were hosts to the Bears, headed by H. M. Shattuck, who won.

An orchestra furnished music during the menu and there was an interesting program of vocal selections and readings at the close.

Building Booster

Permits issued yesterday to the city building department boosted Ontario's building total for April to $111,775 and for the year to date to $550,545.

The permit which gave the total the big boost was that to the Security State Bank for the erection of a handsome new banking house on its recently-acquired property, B street and Euclid avenue. The structure will cost $50,000 and the Campbell Company has the contract.

Big Factory Coming

Another monster boost for Ontario commercially was seen today in the announcement of Charles P. Humphries that he has just given a 5 months' option on his 34-acre ranch adjoining the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific tracks on Bon View avenue to a large eastern manufacturing concern.

The company is said to have plans for the erection of a 5-story factory building, 700 feet long and built in the shape of a huge E. It is further declared that the factory will give regular employment to between 1500 and 2000 people.

While the name of the company or the nature of its product has not yet been made public, it is declared that they mean business and that there is every reason to believe that they will go ahead with their present plans.

Girl Scouts' Farce

Members of Troop No. 1, Chaffey Community Girl Scouts, of which Mrs. Caroline Weirich is leader, yesterday afternoon delighted a goodly audience at Chaffey Auditorium and realized a neat sum for carrying on their Scout work when they presented an amusing one-act farce entitled "The Kleptomaniac."

Mrs. Ruth Kegley gave able assistance to Mrs. Weirich in directing the play and credit for its success is due to both women as well as the girls who took part. All members of the cast were good and included Miss Lucille Durfee, Miss Ruth Stroh, Miss Emily Hiller, Miss Jane Allen, Miss Bessie Barclay, Miss Jeanette Fiddes and Miss Leona Banks.

Fatty Scored by Pastors

The Ontario Ministerial Union, numbering pastors of most of the local churches, was today on record as unreservedly opposed to the return to the moving picture screen of Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, since his acquittal on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Virginia Rappe, following a special meeting at which a resolution voicing a vigorous protest was adopted without a dissenting voice.

Members of the Ministerial Union present at the session at which the resolution was adopted numbered John B. Toomay, pastor Bethel Congregational church; Dr. Charles F. Seitter, pastor First Methodist church; S. W. Carnes, pastor Grace Methodist church; George W. Irwin, assistant pastor First Methodist church; D. C. Lemon, pastor First Free Methodist church; A. K. Bryant, pastor Nazarene church; August Goetze, pastor First Evangelical church; W. Earle Smith, pastor First Baptist church, and Paul E. Wright, pastor First Christian church.

The resolution follows: "We protest without reservation against any attempt on the part of friends of Fatty Arbuckle to bring him back to the screen."

"He has become a moral stench in the nostrils of a decent public by the conduct of a pervert and a debauchee."

"This question does not turn on the evidence of murder or manslaughter, but on the proven and admitted circumstances of the wild orgy that terminated in the death of Virginia Rappe."

"The revolting disclosures of disobedience to the constitution of the land and personal degradation and moral filth on that one occasion are sufficient to condemn him and the others who participated, to final oblivion."

"We appeal to a long-suffering public to assist in putting them where they belong."

"And if the moving picture industry persists in an effort to restore him to his old place, we believe that society should condemn the industry itself, until it proves its repentance by its works."

Although his 12-year-old grandson, William McKenzie, was sleeping in the same bed with him, it was not until his daughter-in-law entered the room to call him to breakfast Saturday morning that it was discovered that Avey Carol McKenzie, Ontario boulevard rancher, had died during the night.

The had recited later how his grandfather had gotten up once during the night and told how Mr. McKenzie replied in the negative when he asked him if he wanted anything. The rancher returned to bed, however, and indications were that death had come while he was asleep.

Mr. McKenzie was 67 years of age and had resided here four years. He is survived by a number of sons and daughters. The rancher had been under the doctor's care for some time, being a sufferer from heart trouble, which was aggravated by a recent attack of influenza.

Funeral services were held this afternoon from Draper's chapel and interment was in Bellevue cemetery.

Radio Fans Increase

Radio fans in Ontario are on the increase and many citizens have already installed radio apparatus in their homes or are planning to do so in the near future.

Among local enthusiasts to join the ranks recently is Archie D. Mitchell, well-known Ontario attorney. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell recently entertained parties of friends at their home, 210 Harvard place, listening in on concerts broadcasted by the Los Angeles Times.

The party heard vocal numbers by Miss Edith Mason and Joseph Schwartz of the Chicago Grand Opera Company; enjoyed James W. Foley's reading of his own poems and listened to the playing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and other numbers of the program.

Members of the party also were able to listen in on conversations between Saskatchewan, Canada, and Denver, Colo., and between San Francisco and San Diego.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Lampkin, 114 Bonita Court, were also among Ontarians to entertain friends at the concerts. Their young son, Kenneth, has long had a splendid receiving outfit in operation and friends of the family frequently enjoy listening in.

JUDGE WARNER TO SPEAK AT M. E. CHURCH TONIGHT

Judge Ben Warner will speak to night at the Methodist Episcopal church on the "Wright Law," and a cordial invitation is extended to everyone to come and hear him. The address will commence at 7:30.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all our kind friends and neighbors who showed their sympathy in such loving service during the illness and death of our beloved father.

CHARLES L. COLEMAN AND FAMILY.

IN THE SHADOW

In the passing to the other shore, a well beloved spirit of this mortal plane has taken flight, Mrs. Katherine Van Osdel's death from heart failure occurring at the home of her daughter Mrs. O. T. Hatch in Alta Loma last Saturday evening.

Mrs. Van Osdel was 80 years of age, and leaves to mourn her loss three daughters, Mrs. Hatch, Mrs. A. J. Straight of Ontario, and Miss Louisa Van Osdel, and two sons both in Chicago.

Mrs. Van Osdel lived in Cucamonga for the past twelve years, residing on Turner avenue. She was a faithful and active member of the Cucamonga Methodist church and was president for seven years of the foreign missionary society.

Funeral services were held this morning from Drapers chapel in Ontario, the Rev. H. C. Mullen officiating. Interment was in Bellevue cemetery.

TONIGHT AT CHAFFEY "LIFE OF JULIUS CAESAR"

Through the activity of Mrs. L. M. C. Conger, head of the Latin department at Chaffey Union, there will be a splendid showing tonight of a six-reel film "The Life of Julius Caesar in the Auditorium at 7:30.

A cordial invitation and general invitation is extended to the general public as well as to the students and their parents to see these pictures. There is no admission, and the evening's entertainment is free to everyone. So come, and invite your friends.

Local News

Miss Ella Haddow, who is in training at St. Vincent's Hospital, Los Angeles, spent Easter Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Haddow of First avenue. She was accompanied by a friend who is also in training and the two girls had a very delightful holiday.

Officials of the County Welfare Department wish to call attention to the fact that this is Child Welfare week, and while no special program has been arranged, all social service workers will give particular attention to cases brought to their knowledge, and help in every way possible the welfare of the children. The Upland club center will be open as usual tomorrow afternoon for mothers and children who need attention, and it is expected that an exceptionally large number will be present, the holiday of last week keeping people away. Mrs. Barnett urges all mothers to come whose children need medical care in any way.

Mr. and Mrs. Close (Esther Hess) arrived last week from San Diego and will spend the next few weeks in Upland. They are planning to camp in the mountains during the summer.

Mrs. Kate Deets and son Donald McKean motored up from Long Beach on Saturday for a visit with relatives. On Sunday Mrs. Bess Grisham and her brother Gordon McKean drove down with them, returning to Upland the same evening.

Miss Charlotte Shingler will be hostess next Saturday to members of the O. T. C.

Word has been received of the birth of twin sons to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phillips of Beattie, Kansas. Mrs. Phillips will be remembered as Lovon Corey and is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Hostettler of Mountain avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Webster and two sons motored from Alhambra to attend the Easter services at St. Mark's Episcopal church on Sunday, and were guests for the day of Upland friends.

Dr. W. R. Farmer, H. P. of Ontario chapter No. 105, R. A. M., left for San Francisco Sunday night where he will spend the week at the convention of the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons. He is representative from this district comprising Upland, Ontario, Chino, Cucamonga and Etiwanda.

Mrs. H. P. Tucker, a former resident of Upland, but who now makes her home in Pomona, was a guest last Friday of Mrs. Thomas Harris. Mrs. Harris returned with her guest to Pomona where she spent the weekend.

The Saturday evening Dinner Dance at The Sycamores last week was very well attended, over 150 people being present. These affairs are always delightful, the floor and music provided being of the best.

Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Mann of San Pedro motored up from the beach to attend Easter service at St. Mark's church last Sunday. They were later luncheon guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Hanson.

Miss Florence Hawthorne spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hawthorne, coming out from Los Angeles for the Easter holiday.

Mrs. H. W. Hawkinson motored to Los Angeles last Saturday with friends, where an enjoyable and interesting time was spent first at the Zoo in Lincoln Park, and then at Exposition Park where bones and skeletons of prehistoric monsters were viewed.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cromer, who have spent their spring vacation with relatives in Upland, left last week for Oakland, where Mr. Cromer is on the faculty of the Oakland High School.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McConkey, accompanied by Mrs. McConkey's brother and sister-in-law and their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bryant and Miss Eula Bryant, motored to the beaches on Sunday. Mr. Bryant although living in Ontario, is proprietor of the Cut Rate Market on Second avenue, and is well-known in Upland.

Mrs. L. T. Cutler is a Los Angeles visitor today by way of the Pacific Electric.

DEEP CREEK CUT-OFF WORK TO BEGIN SOON. ACCORDING TO LETTER

That work on the Deep Creek cut-off from Big Green Valley to Big Bear Lake will be begun shortly, was the opinion of the Board of Supervisors after receiving a letter from state officials stating that the appropriations have been made upon recommendation of the executive committee in charge of all road expenditures and inquiring as to the possible date at which road work could begin.

The letter was received Monday morning by County Surveyor Edgar T. Ham and read at the meeting of the Board of Supervisors. It asked regarding present conditions in the mountains at the points where the surveying parties would have to do their most strenuous work, inquired as to the probable date of the opening of the mountains to the summer travel, and expressed a desire to begin work on the preliminary surveying of the project at once.

THE MOJAVE RIVER FLOWS INTO SINK

For the first time since the winter of 1916 when torrential rains fell in the San Bernardino Mountains and desert regions, the Mojave River is flowing into its natural sink or basin, Silver Lake, according to County Surveyor Edgar T. Ham, who recently returned from a trip to that region. The excessively stormy winter and the amount of melting snow feeding the affluents to the desert stream are given as the reasons for the unusual occurrence.

Reports say that there are approximately 700 acres of water in the East Crows Lake basin, an ordinarily dry lake bed, brought there when the Mojave overflowed its natural channels some weeks ago. At Barstow and other towns far out on the desert, not taking into consideration those more approximate, Hesperia, and Victorville, the Mojave River is declared to be higher than for years. "The amount of water flowing down the Mojave is at least ten times the volume of the Santa Ana at flood time," said Surveyor Ham. "It has been years since the desert stream was on a rampage that in any respect resembles the present one in its proportions."

Silver Lake is the sink of the Mojave and a slender thread of water is said to be trickling past Raso, Soda Lake, Baker and so down to the bed from where the river never rises. For over 200 miles the stream wanders across and over the desert lands, ordinarily losing itself at once in the sands. The number of times the stream has poured water into Silver Lake within the memory of living men can be numbered on the fingers of the two hands. Unless conditions pertain that are unusual next year it is probable that this will be the last time for a considerable span that the dry lake will receive fresh water from its tributary.

There would be more statesmen if politicians knew that the best politics in the long run always is merely following conscience and conviction.

Harry is now in New York conditioning for his forthcoming bout with Tom Gibbons.

SCIENCE STILL TRYING

The goal toward which aviation is now headed is a machine that will rise, like a bird, without a take-off—and land without running along the ground. The "Helicopter" is the present development of the "bird machine," but it is only in the experimental stage of development. Here the French Pescara "Helicopter" is shown in its hangar. The photograph was made during a test of the machine, and shows it 30 centimeters off the ground.

Help Prevent Fires Is Governor's Plea

Governor William D. Stephens has issued the following proclamation calling for a wide observance of Forest Protection and Fire Prevention week, April 16 to 22.

It is stated that fires reported to the California state board of forestry did damage estimated at $1,000,000, burning over 698,357 acres of forest pasture and grain in this state. The financial loss is not only in the destruction of the crops and forests, but the cost of fighting and controlling the flames must be considered. It is easier to prevent fires than to put them out.

The proclamation follows: Whereas, The forests of California, with proper care and protection from fire, will supply by their recurring growth for generation after generation the needs for timber of all of our citizens; and

Whereas, During the summer of 1921, forest brush, grass, hay and grain fires devastated 698,357 acres in California, causing a direct monetary loss estimated at $942,977; killing young trees the value of which, fifty years hence, cannot be estimated; destroying pasture that should have fed hundreds of cattle, sheep and horses; denuding watershed areas of growth needed to conserve water from winter storms for summer irrigation and electric power purposes; leaving barren waste in place of sylvan beauty; and

Whereas, With our growing population our forests are becoming more valuable, both for timber and for the enjoyment and recreation of our populace and tourists from other states; and

Whereas, By reasonable care and protection this great loss can be greatly reduced, our forests preserved, our hay, grain and pasture conserved;

Therefore, I, William D. Stephens, Governor of the State of California, do proclaim the week April 16 to 22, 1922, Forest Protection and Fire Prevention Week, and call upon all of the citizens of California to pledge themselves to exercise watchful care against the starting of fires, either in forests, pasture, or grain areas and to extinguish them promptly when by mischance they do occur, knowing that so to do is to perform one of the most important services that can be rendered to the present and future welfare of our state.

Let teachers observe the week by impressing upon our boys and girls this duty.

Let ministers instruct their congregations.

Let associations such as the Boy Scouts, Farm Bureaus, patriotic and benevolent societies, Chamber of Commerce, Women's Clubs, and the like join in this crusade to protect ourselves and our posterity.

Let railroads take all steps needful to prevent or extinguish fires along their rights of way.

Let lumbermen protect their holdings against fire.

Let fishermen and all those who use the forests or countryside for health or recreation see to it that their fires are kept safe and that carelessness does not endanger that which they enjoy.

Let all citizens adopt as their slogan for this and succeeding years, "Help Prevent Fire," and thus preserve the beauty and wealth of our beloved state.

(Signed) WM. D. STEPHENS, Governor.

CONGRESSMAN LOST FINGER WHILE DREAMING

A certain member of Congress is the first joint of one of his fingers. Now and then some curious inclined person will ask him how he happened to lose it. He will either ignore the question with a smile or blandly remark that it was bitten off by a horse. The real truth of the matter is that that piece of finger was lost through a horrible dream. Many years ago the "life partner" of this man was going through a siege of illness. One day she announced that there was nothing on earth she craved as much as a nice baked mountain trout. Friend husband was nothing if not obliging. He was a notoriously poor fisherman, but nevertheless, he made up his mind that his frail little wife was going to have a trout for supper if he had to try every stream in his own and adjoining counties. Borrowing a rod from his next door neighbor, he started out at daylight. It proved to be one of those days when everything goes wrong. His first mishap occurred while trying to crawl through a barb wire fence in taking a short-cut. This resulted in torn pants and lacerated flesh. While cutting across a field a bull failed to take a fancy to his appearance and chased him up a tree and kept him there until the farmer persuaded the bull otherwise. Ascending a very steep bank a snapping turtle made a snap at his features just as he peered his face over the top. This so disconcerted him that he rolled down the bank, landing in a clump of blackberry bushes. While trying to make a long cast his hook caught in the branches of an overhanging tree, which necessitated perilous tree climbing.

The hour of five arrived without having caught a single fish. In desperation he stepped out on a deep round stone at the edge of a deep pool, ready to make a final effort.

The effort was never made. It was one of those slimy, slippery stones that belie their looks. No sooner had he set foot on it than he found himself splashing into water over his head. When he came up for air his hat was floating down the stream and a fish was running away with his rod. Frantically grabbing the branch of a tree he made a landing on the wrong side of the stream. He had not gone ten feet in his sloppy clothes until he stepped on a huge black water snake, and saw three others wriggling streamward within a few yards of him. Tired and disgusted with everything in general, he started for home with the idea in mind of persuading his wife that fried mackerel would do her just as much good. In his muddy and bedraggled condition he thought it best to use back streets. When within a block of the village electric power plant the boiler decided to blow up, making a noise that sounded like the crack of doom. With nerves shattered, and wornout body, he crawled into bed that night thinking he would have a good sound sleep. Not so. In the middle of the night he dreamed that a bundle of black snakes, all coiled together as big as a barrel, were slowly descending upon him. Hundreds of heads were hissing at him. In wild desperation he let out a yell and struck viciously at them. Instead of hitting reptiles his hand struck the wall and so damaged one finger as to require amputation the next day.

When the Duke of Wellington first went to the court of Louis the Eighteenth, the French marshals whom he had defeated turned their backs upon him. The king apologized for their rudeness. "Never mind, your majesty," replied Wellington; "they have got into the habit, and they can't get out of it."

When a candidate tells you how much he admires the man who is running against him, you have a right to laugh.

Here is an average per capita tax of $44.68 or a tax of $223.40 per annum for a family of five. To this can be added an amount almost as large for the annual government tax, not to mention auto taxes, fishing and hunting taxes, and licenses and assessments of various kinds which in the aggregate would undoubtedly bring the average family tax up to a figure of $500.00 a year.

Is it any wonder the demand is insistent for tax reduction in every western state as well as in national affairs?

Is it any wonder that the public is against the farther issuance of tax exempt bonds which escape all tax burdens to the hardship of the general taxpayer, who must make up the amount thus lost to the government? Already there are over $30,000,000,000 of such securities escaping taxation.

Tax reduction must come and the sooner it comes, the sooner will this nation begin to feel a healthy industrial growth with steady employment at good wages.

REDUCTIONS MADE IN INCOME TAXES

First figures showing the actual decrease in income taxes for 1921 as compared with the previous year in this district have been announced from the office of Collector of Internal Revenue Rex B. Goodcell.

The total collections for 1921 were $41,326,644.47, and the estimated collections for the present year: $32,400,000. This shows a reduction of more than $9,000,000 in the collections, due largely to changes in the present income tax law.

The collections for the first three months of 1921, were as follows: January, $116,517.77; February, $1,023,628; March, $1,125,871.22, making a total of $1,245,016.99.

The collections for the first quarter of the present year were: January, $34,424.36; February, $749,275.83; March $9,171,208.63, or a grand total of $10,171,208.63. This shows a reduction of $2,323,380.36.

Twenty-one field deputies were sworn into office yesterday by Collector Goodcell. They will be stationed at San Bernardino, Long Beach, Pasadena, San Diego, Ventura, Santa Barbara, Los Angeles and Ocean Park. Two of the number will be employed in the local internal revenue office.

SPRING TREATMENT OF CITRUS GROVES

By V. F. Blanchard

From Orchard and Farm

The winter dormant period for citrus trees is over and growers now are beginning spring work. A large percentage of groves have gone through the winter with the soil covered with green manure crops. Unfortunately, the season was not favorable to the growth of cover crops, especially clovers, and but few groves have a large tonnage of green material to turn under.

The writer has seen some excellent fields of purple vetch cover crops and the indications seem to be that the purple vetch has outgrown other cover crops when planted under like conditions.

When to Turn Under. Judging from past experience, when there is only a small growth of green material, there is a temptation to let it grow until late in the spring, in order to produce a greater tonnage. The experiences of the best growers and investigators show that such a procedure does not give the best results. The extra green material produced is obtained at the expense of the best tree response during the season when the energies of the citrus should be confined to the setting and holding of the next season's crop. It is far better to turn under the cover before the middle of March, or at least not later than the latter part of March.

The advantages from early turning under of green manures are as follows: There is less disturbance to the root system of trees, for they are more dormant then; it permits deeper turning under, thus enabling a greater percentage of organic matter and nitrogen to be turned under; and, nitrogen which is contained in the green manure becomes available in time for the spring growth; and fibrous roots are pruned off and new roots are stimulated which are in a better condition for plant food assimilation when spring growth starts.

The Reasons Why. The disadvantages of late turning under are as follows: There is danger of disturbing the root system if the cover crop is turned under deep enough to obtain the greatest benefit from its shallow work; plowing which is necessary for late turning under permits the burning up of the organic matter and loss of nitrogen by exposure; and plant food becomes tied up in the green manure at just the time it is needed by the trees. Early turning under is undoubtedly the best practice.

Good Care Essential for Recovery. Once again the citrus groves of California have been visited by a severe frost. To one who has grown up in the citrus business and whose main interests are with citrus growers it has been a sad sight to behold. But the most unfortunate part of it all is that there are many growers who have been attempting to get their places clear of debt and who have received a great setback.

One question has occurred to every grower: What is the most economical and practical method of bringing the grove back to a state of productivity? It is a question which every grower should attempt to answer for himself. The success of his future efforts will depend largely upon how well his plans are made and carried out.

Lessons From Past. The results of past freezes have brought forth certain principles that can be utilized at this time. The best practices are available to be utilized in getting the injured grove back to productivity. It might be that under certain conditions the grove can be saved by certain treatment; again, the trees may be injured to such an extent that they will always be weak and should be pulled out. Those among numerous questions, should be determined by the individual grower.

There is frequently a tendency, when a disaster has occurred, to slacken up the work. This should not be the case, for one's efforts count much more when conditions are adverse. In traveling about among citrus groves, one cannot fail to be impressed by the spirit of optimism and bravery with which they are facing the situation. The indications are that every effort possible will be made to regain what has been lost.

Citrus Nursery Trees Scarce. Many inquiries have come to the office of the Agricultural Extension Service for Los Angeles County concerning possibilities for citrus nursery trees. It is evident from such inquiries and from recent freeze has played havoc with citrus nurseries. Few nurseries were protected with heaters and many of them were in the regions of most severe injury. The writer has seen a number which were frozen to the bud unions and to the ground. Unfortunately, the regions where less frost injury was experienced contain but few nursery trees.

Young Trees Scarce. It is evident that growers desiring to replace frozen trees will experience great difficulty in obtaining seeds. There will perhaps be a temptation to accept trees not up to standard. The writer had some experience after the freeze of 1913 in planting out trees whose trunks were slightly cracked by the freeze.

It was determined later that it would have been much more preferable to have waited another year or two for good trees, for many of them had to be pulled out. Growers should be certain that the trees they buy are of good quality. A poor nursery tree makes a poor tree in the field.

Effect of Frost on Scale Insects. Many growers have inquired at the office of the Agricultural Extension Service and of its staff members in the field regarding the effect of the recent freeze on scale insects.

It is quite evident that many of them were slaughtered when the leaves and branches died, but those which were protected by foliage that was not injured are very much alive. It is quite probable that fumigation will be a necessity as usual. However, those groves which were injured to the extent that branches died and leaves all dropped, might possibly be able to miss a fumigation. The situation can be judged more accurately a little later. It is a long time before the next fumigation season.

Spring Fertilization. The severe freeze which visited the citrus districts of California and caused so much damage has upset the normal program for many citrus growers. The methods of procedure as followed and recommended by different growers are so varied that the novice or even a grower of considerable experience would have great difficulty in determining just what to do.

One of the questions confronting growers at this time is in regard to the use of quickly-available nitrogenous fertilizers to assist the trees to recover from the effects of the frost. The recommendations from the Agricultural Extension Service in some instances were misunderstood. These recommendations (as gleaned from a survey made by the Citrus Experiment Station following the 1913 freeze) and the observations of practical citrus growers) were to the effect that citrus trees severely injured by frost would NOT be benefited by the use of quickly-available nitrogenous fertilizers, in fact, that growers would be throwing their money away by applying such material at this time.

To Fertilize or Not? A number of growers have asked the writer to advise them in regard to the advisability of eliminating the nitrogen fertilizer this spring. In some instances the trees were found to be only partially hurt by frost a large number of leaves remaining. In the latter instance, the grower should proceed just as if the trees had not been injured by frost, and use the nitrogen fertilizer, for as long as there are many leaves on the trees, the nitrogen can be utilized to good advantage.

It may be impractical however, to use the nitrogen fertilizer when the trees have been so severely injured that most of the leaves have dropped. In that case, nitrogen cannot be assimilated to any appreciable quantity until new leaves are grown. Since it takes a long while to grow a new set of leaves, there is the likelihood that nitrogen added to such trees will be lost.

Experience has shown that spring fertilization, using nitrogen in a quickly-available form, pays by assisting to set a crop of citrus fruit and preventing the June drop. Growers who are obtaining the most consistent crops year after year are those using nitrogenous fertilizers in generous amounts during the spring months.

This particularly applies to oranges but lemons also are benefited by its use when applied at various times over a greater period. The mistake has been made of relying too much upon quickly-available nitrogen fertilizers and not using cover crops and manures, or only a small amount of the latter. The quickly-available nitrogen fertilizer should be used only as a supplementary fertilizer to meet the needs of the tree during the period of greatest necessity.

There are a number of available sources of nitrogen for the spring treatment. Just which one to use should be determined by comparative prices. It is difficult to determine what is the most economical amount to use for best results. Under average conditions, many growers are using a pound or more of nitrogen per full bearing tree; dividing it for applying at two different times.

Source of Supply. Taking ammonium sulfate and cotton seed meal as examples: Ammonium sulfate has 20 per cent nitrogen; therefore it would require 5 pounds of ammonium sulfate to produce a pound of nitrogen. Cotton seed meal has about 6 to 8 per cent nitrogen; therefore about 18 pounds of this material would produce a pound of nitrogen. The following table was prepared by the Agricultural Chemistry Division of the College of Agriculture, Berkeley, and shows comparative analyses:

Percentage Range of Nitrogen	Nitrogen
Nitrate of soda	13-16 %
Sulfate of ammonia	20-20½ %
Dry blood	12-13 %
Tankage	6-10 %
Fish Scrap	8-11 %
Bone meal, raw	3-4 %
Bone meal, steamed	3-3½ %
Peruvian guano	6-10 %

WANT OCEAN TO OCEAN
HIGHWAY GO VIA BLYTHE

Late advices from the county seat were to the effect that San Bernardino will be represented in a meeting to be held soon in Phoenix regarding the routing of the Ocean-to-Ocean Highway.

Reports are current that San Diego wishes to make the proposed highway go through the extreme Southern part of the state. The supervisors of Riverside and San Bernardino will put up a stiff argument to get the road to run through Blythe, thus tapping this fertile territory instead of the many barren stretches along the border.

CALIFORNIA LEADS STATES IN VALUE NURSERY STOCK GROWN; SECOND IN ACREAGE

There are 51, 453 acres of the best soil of the United States used in growing nursery trees, and the leading state is New York with 5,268 acres, according to the census report. The next is California with 4,080. The comparative values of the acreage in New York and California are vividly shown in the financial returns. While New York's 5,000 acres bring in a total of nursery stock to the value of $2,310,253, California's 4,000 produce stock valued at practically three million dollars, or to be exact, $2,920,458.

In number of nurseries, California also leads with 540 against 359 for New York. There are only six states producing nursery stock exceeding in value a million dollars. These are in

MILLIONS OF TROUT FOR THE ANGLER

By far the largest number of trout ever reared in San Bernardino County by the Fish and Game Commission was given the broadest and best distribution last year that co-operation of local Supervisors with State authorities has yet enabled.

The planting, directed by Deputy Malone, took all summer, but a grand-total of 2,333,000 trout was divided between Big Bear Lake and the County's numerous stream systems. All but 6,000 of this immense total were native "Rainbows" from Big Bear Lake eggs, reared, 1,105,000 in North Creek Eying Station and 1,215,000 in Bear Valley Hatchery proper. The 6,000 Eastern Brook trout from Mt. Whitney Hatchery were personally planted by A. J. McFadden in the coldest tributaries of the upper Santa Ana. As the Big Bear Lake fish originally came from the husky Klamath River strain which produces the largest and fastest-growing rainbow trout known to California fish-culture, it is not surprising that the State egg-takers report bigger "spawners" than ever showing up ahead of the "run" proper. The experts have been awaiting favorable weather for some time, the cold and repeated snows holding the egg-laden "Breeders" back in the lake, this being, unfortunately, a general condition all over the State.

While last year's plantings will hardly be grown enough for good sport this season, the Fish and Game Commission has been distributing millions of rainbow trout in the San Bernardino Watershed during the past several summers, and as soon as present high water subsides, the best sport ever known may confidently be expected, despite some unavoidable loss from heavy storm-scourings of the streams last winter. The plantings of 1921, given by stream-systems, follows:

Big Bear Lake—1,004,000; Van Lusen Cr., 12,000—total lake, 1,016,000.

Santa Ana—Upper River, 113,000; F. Fork, 10,000 (2,000 brook); Forsee Cr., 15,000; Barton Cr., 12,000; N. Fork, (4,000 Brook); Fish Cr., 2,000; Middle River from Central down past Clark's Ranch, etc., 22,000; Lower river, 14,000; Alder Cr., 12,000; Keller Cr., 4,000; Deer Cr., 4,000—Total Santa Ana system—214,000.

Deep Creek—Holecomb Cr., 43,000; Upper Deep Cr., above and below "Crest Road, 65,000; Middle Deep Cr., 110,000; Hook Cr., 45,000—total Deep Creek system—263,000.

Mill Creek System—Mt. Home 11,000; F. Fork, 11,000; Mill Cr., 40,000—62,000.

Etiwanda-Cucamonga Streams—Day canyon, 4,000; Cucamonga canyon, 22,000; N. Fork, 6,000—Total, 68,000.

Tributaries to Arrowhead Lake—Little Bear or Blue Jay Cr., 75,000.

San Antonio—Leehouse Canyon 8,000; San Antonio 78,000—total, 86,000.

Lytle Creek System—Total, 60,000.

City Creek System—City Cr., 60,000; S. Fork, 50,000—Total, 90,000.

Waterman Canyon System—Main canyon, 25,000; Strawberry Cr., 7,000—Total, 32,000.

Mohave River Tributaries, L. A. Playground Streams, etc.—Huston Cr., 19,000; Seeley Cr., 19,000; Grass Valley Cr., 11,000; Colliwater canyon, 12,000; Hillside Res., 6,000—total, 67,000.

Banning Canyon—8,000 rainbow fry from Mt. Whitney Hatchery.

Riverside County was well cared for again last year from Mount Whitney Hatchery which sent down 50,000 trout. Snow Creek, a particularly deserving stream, tumbling down the sheer northern buttress of San Jacinto Peak in a series of cascades and rock-bound deep, basin-like pools, being well planted by co-operation of County Supervisors and interested local sportsmen with the Fish and Game Commission. P. F. Pollard of "Whitewater Ranch" provided stock and helped "back in" 13,000 "Rainbow" fry and 5,000 Steelhead from the Red River stock away up the East Fork above the Falls, and 5,000 of each were also planted in the main stream. Strawberry Creek was planted by C. L. Emerson with 7,500 Rainbow and 2,000 Loch Leven; Willow Creek, 1500 rainbow; and Deputy Gyger planted the North Fork of the San Jacinto with 2000 Loch Leven and Coldwater Creek on the Santa Ana mountains was given 4,000 rainbow, planted by Frank Johnson of Corona.

Campers and Smokers Held Responsible For Forest Fires

"Three hundred forty-one cases of forest fire law enforcement were handled by forest officers this past season in California," according to the report issued by District Forester Paul G. Redington of the California district. "One hundred fifty-two visitors in the forest who left unextinguished camp fires and 34 smokers who were responsible for the start of forest fires were apprehended by forest officers. These fires are chargeable to ignorance of the law, negligence and carelessness. Seventy-seven incendiary fires were set in the national forests, and cases were successfully worked up against 41 of these offenders. Fines and settlements amounting to $14,446 were collected for failure to comply with the federal and state fire laws.

"Invoking the law has become necessary," Redington states, "when it is considered that 92 fires this past season are directly attributable to negligence and carelessness of man. From 1911 to 1915 there has been a steady increase in the number of man-caused fires, and while a small reduction has been effected the total number still constitutes a serious menace to the welfare of our national forests."

The press of California has assisted the forest service in bringing home to the people of the state the necessity for care with fire in the forests. Apparently the publicity and educational campaign conducted in itself has failed to bring the desired results. Redington states that in view of this situation stringent enforcement of the fire laws will be carried out this coming season.

NOTICE!

WE regret to announce to our customers that it is officially declared, that the CALIFORNIA SILVERWARE REDEMPTION BUREAU is Bankrupt; and that their stock of Silverware and office furniture has been seized by the Sheriff of Los Angeles County.

In the investigation made by the Los Angeles Business Men's Association it appears that while the intentions of the Company were good, and their business had been honestly conducted, they did not have sufficient capital to carry on the extensive business contracted, and not being able to meet their outstanding obligations were forced into involuntary Bankruptcy.

We are very sorry that this has happened. We had investigated the Company and were satisfied it was legally organized, and had a charter from the State, and had every confidence in and reason to suppose all Coupon Tickets would be redeemed as per guarantee.

And incidentally we have paid out a considerable sum of money in purchase of tickets to be given away.

And while it is a regrettable circumstance, we can not help it.

We did our part in buying the Coupons and giving them away.

The CASH MARKET had just received and paid for $75.00 worth of Coupons.
